As a massage therapist, you see first-hand the consequences of poor posture, unergonomic working set-ups and bad form in manual handling. While you might be an expert at helping heal these conditions, if a client alleged your treatment worsened their condition, healing from the financial consequences of this wouldn't be so simple.

For example, a client may allege that your massage treatment caused their condition to worsen or they might allege that they slipped and injured themselves in your practice. Both scenarios could result in them suing you for financial compensation.

That is why it's important to have adequate insurance in place for your massage therapy practice to help you to recover and heal from the financial stress of certain mishaps.

Professional Indemnity insurance arranged by Aon

Aon has worked with CGU Insurance to develop a Professional Indemnity, Public and Products Liability insurance policy that seeks to address the common needs and risks faced by massage therapists. This insurance cover is intended to help protect you and your business if something goes wrong such as an incident while you're treating a client.

This policy includes the following cover benefits:

Flexible Professional Indemnity cover limits

Choose a level of Professional Indemnity cover to suit your needs - $2 million, $5 million, $10 million or $20 million.²

2 hours complimentary legal advice

You could save hundreds of dollars on outside legal costs with 2 hours of complimentary legal advice on risks insured under this policy. Legal advice relating to your policy is not included.²

Unlimited retroactive date

This policy is intended to help provide cover for claims relating to events connected with your business that happened before you purchased your policy, provided you weren't aware of a claim or facts or circumstances which could give rise to a claim before you purchased the policy.
